Your Tiles

Features and Guidance

Tiles make an excellent choice of covering for walls and floors, for several reasons:

Durability

Tiles are hard-wearing, particularly the porcelain floor options, which are designed to withstand all the rigours and mishaps of daily life.

Water and stain resistance

Tiles have exceptionally low porosity, and most spillages can be wiped clean with ease.

Huge diversity of styles and effects

Modern production/printing techniques mean that tiles can display almost any look conceived. Variable patterns add to the sense of authenticity and naturalness. Marble, rock, wood – a tile can be anything you want it to be!

Ease of maintenance

With only a little bit of love, tiles can be relied upon to keep looking fantastic for many years, long after other coverings would have faded.

Although benefiting from a variety of modern styles and effects, tiles are at heart a traditional product comprising natural clays and materials, which imbue them with several special features. To make sure you get the most out of your tiles, here are some of the key factors to consider:

Appearance — shading and lighting

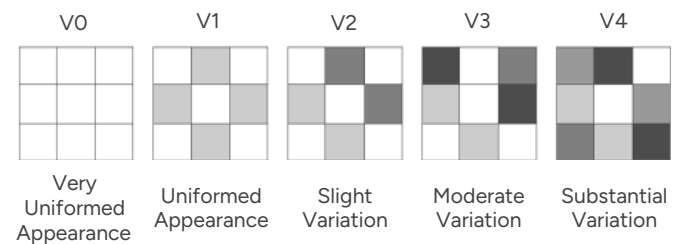

As tiles use natural products and are sensitive to atmospheric conditions in production, there will always be slight shading variances between batches. Tiles are always supplied in batches to ensure consistency, but it is likely that there will be some minor variance between any representative sample and the delivered tile.

Lighting can also play a role, for example, a tile installed in a dimly lit room will appear darker than one viewed in a light, airy setting.

Pattern and shade variance

One of the great features of tiles is that, through technologically advanced production methods, natural-looking patterning can be built into every single tile. This is how wood-effect, or natural stone-effect tiles look so realistic – no two tiles in the box are exactly the same! To gauge the degree of pattern variation, the industry uses the V-rating system, where V0 is complete pattern homogeneity (i.e., a plain white tile) and V4 indicates high variance between each tile (a tile closely imitating natural veined rock might feature such variety).

A guide to shade variance

V0	Pieces of the same shade value are very uniform and smooth in texture.
V1	Minor variations in colour and/or structure for a restful natural effect.
V2	Clearly distinguishable differences in texture and/or pattern within similar colours.
V3	While the colour and/or texture on a single piece of tile could be indicative of the colour and / or texture on the other tiles, the amount of colour and / or texture variation on each piece may be significant.
V4	Random colour and/or texture differences from tile to tile, so that one tile may have totally different colour and / or texture from that on other tiles. Thus, the final installation will be unique.

Cleaning and maintenance

Tiles are pretty low-maintenance, but will always benefit from a bit of TLC! Specialist tile-cleaning products exist for such a purpose, with the mildly alkaline Lithofin Conditioning Cleaner recommended for general day-to-day cleaning. Stronger products are also available for more intensive cleans if required.
